

THE BOB CATS NEWSLETTER

JUNE 25, 2010.

Welcome to another edition of the Bob Cats Newsletter. It's night time in the big city and the sun doesn't set, it's still up there in the sky, the city's completely deserted, an empty bus goes by the closed down coffee shops and restaurants, the sun pours down like honey and a cloud goes by and birds are singing as we enter the midsummer dream in the garden of earthly delights and drama, the may pole is in the dark hole, the flowery garlands flagging in the breeze eager to please the songs and prayers escaping from the hearts of youth and age raging in the white night, ravishing raked paths and flower boarders, plunging themselves into the wilderness of being naked, inebriated by lust and fragrances of parsley, sage rosemary and thyme, wine, belladonna and by the blood of Christ roaring in your veins through centuries of ancestors and demons locked up behind your watch and chain. The boars roam the wood, you're in a boat with strangers chanting, the oars are floating downstream, the moon and sun are one, nightingales carousing in the shrubbery and a lonely black bird, torn and frayed crows in the background, Satan is waiting crosslegged at the cross roads and Tomorrow is already boarding the late night express from Paddington Station, leaving now, luggage marked in thick chalky fonts; Regret, Remorse and Pain and yet we'll laugh about it all when tomorrow comes, it's just another crazy story, it's life and life only...

FLASHES FROM THE PAST

I´m walking through the summer nights
Jukebox playing low Yesterday everything was going too fast
Today, it´s moving too slow
I got no place left to turn
I got nothing left to burn
Don´t know if I saw you, if I would kiss you or kill you
It probably wouldn´t matter to you anyhow
You left me standing in the doorway, crying
I got nothing to go back to now

GOOD NIGHT

What am I to think now, the white scut
of her bottom disappearing down the half-flight carpet stair
to the bathroom?
What am I to do with this masted image?
I put all my doubt to the mouth of her long body, let her draw the night
out of me like a thorn.
She touched it, and it moved: that's all.
