Welcome to another edition of the Bob Cats Newsletter. It's night time in the big city and the heat is on, a cluster of customers outside the Black Swan leaning on the wall in shirtsleeves and tank tops as Burton the bartender and Brigitte la serveuse arrange the outdoor seating. All the windows of the Saint James Hotel are open wide. There's a fashion convention in the Lincoln Room. On a bench in the Grazing Green Franz Xaver Kappus and Cornwell the cracked actor discuss couplets and Coleridge. A street car named Chanel goes by, windows open, leaving passengers' hair four sheets to the wind, two bagladies and seven fashion models hang on to the emergency brake. The train-driver's wearing headphones, blasting reggae, he's a young guy, barely twenty.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, BOB • MAY 24 • EVERY YEAR.

FLASHES FROM THE PAST

Down on the bottom

Down to the last drop in the cup

Down on the bottom

No place to go but up

Always been in trouble

Nearly all my life

Always been in trouble

Struggle, scorn and strife

Go find me my bluebird

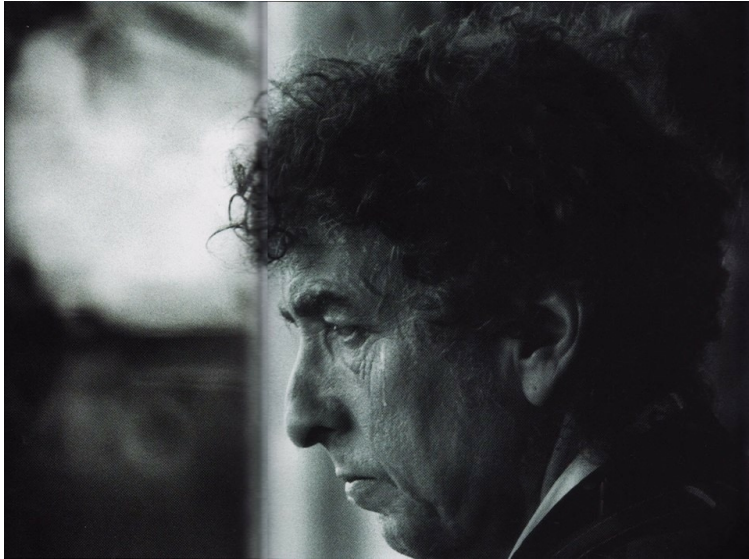

Flying so high up above

Go find me my bluebird

Go find me somebody to love.

GOODBYE

CHRIS CORNELL (1964-2017).

https://www.nytimes.com/2017/05/18/arts/music/chris-cornell-dead-soundgarden.html?_r=1

GOOD NIGHT

Friends and days go by

Nights without a sound

Time's a dealer, trusty captain of this ship

Eagle prey in claw

Pigeons strut and coo

She's a mother, children riding on her hips

Sea will rise again

Dust will settle down

You're a rover, roaming drunk on cherry wine

Looking for that four clover and some piece of mind.
