Welcome to another edition of the Bob Cats Newsletter. It's night time in the big city and the night nurse is smoking a cigarette leaning up against the front of the Saint James Hotel. She's blonde, she's thin, she's got her bag and her Burberry across her shoulder. She knows where she's heading, she knows where she's been, watching a street car named Savannah go by. There's a party on top of the Hohner Building fireworks and jazz. The roar of a vintage Cadillac starting up, cabbied down, empty tin cans on a string, 'newly married' painted on its side heading south on Main Street to the Carlsbad by the Sea Honeymoon Hotel. The cracked actor has fallen asleep on a park bench outside the Black Swan. The black dog curled up underneath.

PHOTO OPPORTUNITY

FLASHES FROM THE PAST

I listen to you time and time again
While you tell me just what's right
And you tell me a thousand things a day
Then sleep somewhere's else at night
I'm going back to Kansas City

And you call me to come, then I do
And you say you made some mistake
You invite me into your house
Then you say you gotta pay for what you break
I'm going back to Kansas City

Gypsy woman, you know every place I go
Even a thousand miles away from home
You don't care if I'm asleep or I'm awake
This fickle heart just turn to stone
I'm going back to Kansas City

And I love you dear, but just how long
Can I keep singing the same old song
And I love you dear, but just how long
Can I keep singing the same old song
I'm going back to Kansas City
(lost on the river: the new basement tapes)

GOOD NIGHT

I'm into the woods and out of the blue
I was looking for trouble, when I found you
Hounds on my trail, time on my side
I pawned the ring of my teenage bride
The grass is green 'tween the cobble stones
I chill in the corner resting my bones
There's a house in town at the end of the street
Where boys play at marbles, coins in the cup
Where the big black maria comes to a stop
Where the witness' words are all garbled up
Where money changes hands in the butcher shop
Where the salt of the earth flogs its daily meat
You put the torch to the paper and watch it burn
Too late for sorry, too old to learn.
